AMUSEMENTS

CHARLES RAY IN "RED HOT DOLLARS" AT THE BUTLER

Charles Ray dons overalls and carries a dinner pail in his new picture "Red Hot Dollars," which will be the attraction at the Butler today.

The youthful star has the role of Tod Burke, a machinist in a small town iron foundry. Peter Garton, the owner of the foundry, is cold and selfish and has been the means of driving to the wall Angus Muir, his old business associate. Muir and his pretty daughter, Janet, live in poor financial straits in a humble cottage. Tod picks up an acquaintance with them later, his quick wit enables him to save his employer's life when a heavy timber falls, though Tod himself is badly hurt. Old Garton is affected by the boy's sacrifice and in taking him to his mansion looks after him while he regains his strength and then decides to adopt him.

Tod tells Muir of his good fortune, innocent of the strong enmity between the Scotchman and Garton, and Muir drives him out of his house.

Thereupon, Tod gets Janet a job in the Garton offices and the two evolve a clever and audacious scheme to bring about a reconciliation between Muir and Garton. It is a thoroughly enjoyable picture.

Added to the program will be the first of a series of Prizmas, one of the most beautiful single reels produced on the screen, and will be shown every Friday. Tomorrow, "Should Husband's Forgive," a big special drama of high life and deep shadows, in which the greatest of modern civilization is answered.

CHICAGO MAN MAKES APPEAL FOR LIBERTY

Charles A. Windle of Chicago on Monday night told an audience of about 800 persons at the Rialto, in Reno, that prohibition was un-Christian, un-American and unjust; that it forced the standard for weaklings upon the strong and prevented personal liberty of men.

The speaker appeared under the auspices of the Order of Camels, a body of which was recently organized in Reno. The organization was formed to combat prohibition and to crusade for repeal of the Volstead enforcement act.

Mr. Windle quoted Scripture, science, statistics and slang to prove his contentions and applause was frequent. At one point in his lecture the orator asked those who felt they needed prohibition to stand. One man stood up and the speaker then declared it seemed wrong to force prohibition on several hundred who did not need it to protect the one who thought it did.

Two interruptions added to the interest during the evening. The speaker invited anyone who cared to prove prohibition a good thing to come to the stage and make the attempt. One speaker accepted the invitation but his voice failed to carry beyond the footlights and his
